The Pinewoods Club Needs Your Help

The Club is entering our 42nd year. A constant supply of able and willing volunteers has allowed us to keep going, presenting the concerts, weekends, social events, classes and workshops that we all treasure for all these years.

We are asking you to seriously consider running for the Board of Directors. (There were 9 open slots this past year.) The Club needs your help to continue.

The work needed to keep the Club viable is prodigious; it is beyond the ability of a handful of the same people year after year. The Board is now down to one more than the minimum number. Some very dedicated people are hanging in there to keep us afloat, sometimes barely. But the time that the same people can continue is clearly limited, both for emotional and practical reasons. Burn-out can become a serious problem. The Club needs a regular infusion of new blood, new ideas, new energy, new commitment to continue.

This does not need to be a lifetime commitment; put in two or three years on the Board, then help find your own replacement. The Board meets once a month except for August. These are set as the second Monday of the month, except for January when we have a longer meeting on one day of a weekend to organize the Club's officers and committees for the coming year. Every Board member serves on at least one of the standing committees: Publicity, Finance, Membership, Program. These meet on an occasional basis as needed to get specific charges from the Board accomplished. Our greatest need (as has been the case for decades) is in Publicity and outreach. It is important to note that Club members who want to help can serve on committees without joining the Board. Some standing offices are going unfilled; in particular, we badly need a volunteer coordinator.

We plead for members for whom it is really important that the Club continue, for whom it would be a tragedy if the Club could not continue. We plead for people who have interest and some modest knowledge of the kind of music that is our core, but most of all people who are able to work cooperatively with others. The by-laws require those running for the Board to have been members for 6 months. (This year that means that one has joined before July 1, 2006.)

If the Club is important in your life, please seriously consider this. Do not assume that the Club will automatically be there. There is nothing automatic about it. Please call President Joy Bennett for info or to be put on the ballot, 718-575-1906; or Jerry Epstein, 718-429-3437. The ballot is mailed around December 1.

-Jerry Epstein

In this musical workshop Anne Price and Steve Suffet will introduce you to a few of Woody Guthrie's other 2,970+ songs. Some were recorded or published in Woody's own lifetime; others were discovered among his effects after his death. All deserve to be recognized as the gems that they are. Come prepared to learn some new old songs!

Anne Price is a versatile and gifted singer born and raised in New York City. She sings a wide variety of traditional folk songs and many songs from contemporary songwriters, as well as songs she has written. Her wide repertoire includes Appalachian ballads, Irish and Scottish songs, country songs, songs of the sea, cowboy songs, songs about work and the labor movement, feminist songs, and love songs.

Steve Suffet is best described as an old-fashioned folksinger. His repertoire is a mixture of railroad songs, trucker songs, cowboy songs, union songs, old time ballads, blues, ragtime, Gospel, bluegrass, topical-political songs, and whatever else tickles his fancy.

Marcia Tucker

Marcia Tucker, a long-time FMSNY member, died on October 17th at home in Santa Barbara, where she moved in 2005 to teach at a Los Angeles art college. Survived by husband Dean McNeil and daughter Ruby, she went to "The Better Land" (Sacred Harp 454, one of her favorites) also survived by two New York cultural institutions, The New Museum and The Art Mob -- not to mention legions of artists, arts administrators, curators, writers and singers she nurtured and inspired.

Marcia founded The New Museum of Contemporary Art to showcase innovative, socially significant art from around the country in 1977, after the Whitney Museum backed off that mission for its Biennial exhibitions, which she had mounted as its chief curator since 1969. She directed what is now known as The New Museum for 23 years, and then freelanced as a curator, critic, lecturer, and standup comic (in the persona of Miss Mannerist, adviser to arts scenesters, who would have disdained the pretense of being called "performance art").

Her lifelong avocation was singing - from cowboy songs heard on the radio at age 4, through a folkie duo in the early 60's Village scene, to The Art Mob, the other cultural institution that survives her. She founded this 14-member group of amateur singers in 1979. It presents brilliantly arranged a capella versions of obscure, formerly-popular songs - ranging from hymns to ballads to parlor songs and beyond - in wittily themed concerts every May and December. The hysterical program notes (which Marcia wrote for the first 25 years) reflect the group's refusal, so characteristic of her, to take itself, or the musty musical treasures it delights in digging up, very seriously.

Marcia wrote amusingly of her determination to keep singing, despite ridicule and discouragement from family and early music teachers, in "Singing Fool." A chapter from her recently completed and hopefully forthcoming memoir, Short Life of Trouble, this inspiring tale of how enthusiasm trumps talent can be read here: www.marciatucker.com/excerpts.html#singing.

Marcia's love of group singing also led her to take an active role in the revival of the shaped note tradition over the last thirty years. The participation of Marcia and her husband Dean, a strong and equally enthusiastic singer, were a big boost in getting FMSNY's 3rd Sunday Singing at St Bart's off the ground five years ago.

I might never even have found out about the club at all if not for Marcia, so I am also very grateful to her for this, as well (though I don't know if I every told her about it). After living in New York for many years, ignorant of its existence, I saw an Art Mob concert at Greenwich House listed in The New York Times. On attending, I noticed and picked up one of the club's newsletters displayed there!

Marcia's spiritual energy, as well as her humor and intelligence, showed through in everything she did, but perhaps most clearly in her vigorous leading of Sacred Harp songs, as pictured here. She sang as she lived: flat-out!

From the Editor

This is our November/December issue. Remember to save it for next month's events!

Our Eisteddfod Festival is going to be Nov 17-19. It will be a very exciting event. We need volunteers, and we need housing for out-of-towners. See page 14 for details. There will also be Chantey Sings, Sacred Harp Sings, and Gospel and Sacred Harp Sings, the Seaport concerts, Pub night and "Woody Rediscovered".

We just came back from our Fall Weekend at the Nevele, and I must say we had a grand time. It was a bit different for us. For one thing, there were other people there, (some of whom may actually join the club). For another, we were served. Can you imagine being offered three choices for the main dish? And if there was something not on the menu, you could ask for it? I don't know—this could become a habit. The rooms were great, I was able to sneak in a swim or two, and the music of course was wonderful. The leaves were showing off their fall colors, and many people took walks in the brisk fall air. We will still be going back to Warwick in the winter and to Kislak for the

Lou Giampetruzzi

We met Lou and Kate about six years ago at a concert they were doing in the Brooklyn's Good Coffeehouse Music Parlor in the beautiful Ethical Culture building. From that moment on, we fell in love with their music and the people who made it. Their ability to bring their music into communities and their support for other musicians was only surpassed by the love they had for each other.

If we could turn the clock back to the 1960's, we would be able to go to Washington Square Park and catch Lou jamming, or enjoy a performance of the Wonder Beans, Kate and Lou's group. The fact is, Lou never stopped. Right to the very last year of his life, Lou was out there organizing, supporting, and creating opportunities for the music and musicians to come together so that people who might never have been exposed to American traditional music would have that chance.

Lou's musicianship was superb on any instruments that he played and he enlivened and enriched every tune and song with his accordion playing. In addition, he wrote a book for accordionists called "Contemporary Accordion". Check it out, if you have a chance. And give a listen to Kate and Lou's excellent CD's, "Mississippi Ripple" and "Beansprouts".

Lou was a fighter and organizer in other areas of his life, as well. His dear friends and neighbors Marisol and Stephan told us that he had been working to get handicapped access for the building in which they all lived. Beyond the music, Lou's battles extended beyond, and could have been engulfed by, his fight to live while living with life-altering illness. Other people would have given in to what he had to live with, but no matter what he was handling, he always took it in stride and kept on doing what he needed to do. Whenever we would call Lou, he always had a realistic but upbeat view of what he was going through. He had a superb spirit.

And speaking of spirit, Kate embodies what a wife and companion and best friend can be to a husband. Their relationship was so special, so precious. He was a lucky man to have been married to Kate.

When Kate and Lou sang together, it was a gift of finely honed music, which was even further enhanced when other musicians teamed up with them. But Kate and Lou were members of an intimate team that was more than just musicians, more than just a married couple. They were complete.

We Will Meet Once More

My brother Hy died on Sept 25, 2006 at the age of 86. Ironically, I had just completed a round singing arrangement of a beautiful traditional song, using my own favorite words. Here it is, in his honor. As is customary, 'brothers' may be followed by 'sisters', 'mothers', 'fathers', and so forth.

1. Trad'l song We Will Meet Once More // Round arr., new words, Sol 2006

Brothers, now our meet-ing is over, brothers, we must part; and meet once more, we will meet once more. We will if I never see you any more, I'll love you in my heart. We will meet once more, and we'll sing for ev-er more.
(unison, brothers, sisters, mothers, fathers, brothers)

He was born in 1920 in Poland. The family moved to Germany, then (thankfully) moved to the U.S. He married before WW2 — I, in my tiny tuxedo, was the ring bearer — then off to France, using his math skills in an artillery unit. Our side won. Back to the Bronx, NY, driving a taxi (wildly), and off to college under the G.I. Bill, eventually becoming a lawyer. A music lover, he got his dad to buy one of those giant floor model radios (on which we all heard lots of classical music), AND then an upright piano. Expensive items for an immigrant family — my father was a pants presser — but acquisitions that possibly sparked my own musical interests. He was politically active, and I remember Bronx motorcades, and hearing the singing, guitar-playing Progressive Party VP candidate, Glen Taylor (AND Henry Wallace). A fine brother, a good family man. Survived by wife Reba, daughters Diane and Ellen (my nieces), numerous grandchildren, and brothers Irv and Sol. So long. It was good to know you.
